INVESTMENT MANAGERS' COMMENTARY

The Stork DMS fund began 2024 with an excellent monthly performance.

Throughout January, investors' eyes were firmly fixed on the many economic statistics being published. US job creation in December far exceeded expectations. In addition, the first estimate of US GDP for Q4-2023 also surpassed the consensus. This resilience of the economy should encourage the Fed to take a cautious approach to any future cuts in key rates in order to sustainably bring inflation back to its target. In Europe, the ECB kept its rates unchanged as expected. Some ECB members raised the possibility of an initial rate cut. Although very optimistic at the end of the year, these economic data led the market to slightly reduce its expectations of rate cuts for 2024. German and US 10-year yields consequently rose by 14 bps and 3 bps respectively over the month. Credit spreads remained stable overall, with a very slight spread of 1 bp for the index grouping European Investment Grade names.

Against a backdrop of high expectations of rate cuts and record levels of liquidity, investors' appetite for bond assets remains strong. This "risk-on" trend and portfolio's rebuilding at the beginning of the year contributed to the relative tightening of credit spreads on all bond securities. As a result, the Credit and Credit Opportunities sub-funds benefited from the positive trend in basic arbitrage and carry positions. In addition, the strong supply of papers was easily absorbed by investor demand. This phenomenon was also observed on securitisation assets. New deals in European ABS were well absorbed, with coverage ratios of 2x for the most senior tranches, signalling investor appetite for the asset class. Against this backdrop, credit spreads narrowed by between 5 and 10 bps depending on the sector, explaining the good performance of the ABS fund. The same is true for the CLO fund, where the credit spread on the most senior tranches narrowed by 13 bps over the month. Meanwhile, the Fixed Income sub-fund remained stable over the month and took advantage of the primary market to rebuild a large number of positions, particularly in the interest-swaps speciality.

On the equity side, the M&A sub-fund posted a balanced monthly performance. Across our portfolio, there was a global discount widening in the first month of the year, although no major concerns were raised about any specific names. The main monthly gain was seen in the Amryt Pharmaceuticals strategy, finalised in April 2023. Under the terms of the offer made by Chiesi Farmaceuti, payment was accompanied by the receipt of optional Contingent Value Rights (CVRs), which could be valued if certain scenarios were met. Now that the assumptions needed to value the CVR have been validated, its value has risen sharply. Finally, the Convertible sub-fund started the year with strong performance. Most of our positions were well placed, particularly those in the finance portfolio, which appreciated throughout the month. We took the opportunity to readjust our CoCos positions by taking advantage of new opportunities.
